“ My earliest memory of Kevin goes back to our High School days when he kicked the dirt I had just swept up across the floor in our class room. We met in the hall after class and threatened each other but rather than fight we became best of friends. That was just Kevin, always trying to lighten the mood and usually succeeding. He was our best man in my wedding and we did the whole blood brother thing with my dull Buck knife. My thoughts and prayers are with Cindy, the girls and the whole family, I hope you gave my beautiful wife a hug when you got up there brother.
