Neysa was born on May 25, 1994 at Scottsdale, Arizona, the daughter of Brian and Lisa (Snyder) Siepker. At a very young age the family returned to the Carroll Community where Neysa was raised. At the age of 13 Neysa was diagnosed with epilepsy. It was a difficult journey in the beginning, but she learned to not let it define her or determine the path of her life. Neysa graduated from Carroll High School in 2013. While in high school Neysa was active as a manager for the football and soccer teams. She enjoyed the social aspect of school, but hitting the books was not her strong suit as she would say.

Following her formal education Neysa worked at New Hope Village, and later Pizza Ranch, which would become her home away from home. She enjoyed her co-workers, and interacting with the people. Neysa loved the hustle and bustle and the “goodies” that came at the end of the night.

Neysa enjoyed puzzles, Sudoku, coloring with her sister Olivia, video games, billiards, Netflix, and music of any kind. She enjoyed any game but especially the games that she played with her “social” friends when they were enjoying the nightlife. Neysa played Volleyball with her dad on the American Home Shield Team. She loved being a part of the team.

Neysa was a talker and could spark up a conversation very easily. She had a heart of gold and would take the time to visit or just give a hug. Her family was very important to her, and she was proud to be a daughter, and sister. When she did not see them daily, she would call or text just to say “hi” or “what’s up”.

Left to cherish her life are her parents: Brian and Lisa Siepker of Carroll; her sisters: Olivia, Sara, and Emerald Siepker all at home; paternal grandfather: Larry Siepker of Carroll; paternal grandmother: Jeanne (Kenny) Thorley of Wickenburg, AZ; as well as numerous aunts, uncles, cousins, and many friends.

Neysa was preceded in death by her maternal grandfather: Roger “Rocker” Snyder, and her maternal grandmother: Bette Snyder.

If there was one memory we could leave you, is that Neysa had a huge heart for people, especially her family. She was so proud of her sisters, and all they were accomplishing in their lives. She loved to kiss and hug, and usually was not the first one to let go. Neysa had a tattoo on her shoulder. It was a quill that spread out into birds flying, and with it, it said: "sometimes you have to fall before you can fly." You test out those new wings now Nees, they are all yours.

“ I had the privilege of meeting Neysa when Brian (her dad) brought her by my classroom to introduce her to me. I have a vivid recollection of this beautiful young lady who was able to identify a beautiful mural in my classroom of a Greek island. Neysa had an infectious smile and a wonderful personality when I met her. When I received a call from Brian notifying me of her sudden passing, I was at a loss for words and could only express my deepest condolences to Brian and Lisa for this tragic loss. Rest assure she is continuing to be the wonderful young lady that I met and everyone knew.

Neysa has left her mark with so many who were fortunate to have known her. I am grateful I had that opportunity “Neysa had a truly kind soul. Her concern for those she cared for was always a top priority for her. I enjoyed assisting her in client cares during Day Services and getting to know her on a personal level in the process. She was so easy to talk to & had the prettiest smile. I will forever miss the stories & laughter that we shared. She touched my life and was an inspiration to never give up despite the doubters that inevitably surround us. I have thought of her so often since she left work. She spoke often of her mother who she clearly loved with all her heart. My heart is breaking for her mother. My mother lost a son & I, a brother, unexpectedly when he was 26 years old, and there was nothing I wished for more than to have the ability to take her pain away because a mother should never have to bury her child. My advice to you is to let people in. Let them help. Talk to them. Accept the support of those around you and allow them to lift you up in your time of grief. Grieving is a never-ending road, but you aren't alone & you don't have to do it alone. Please don't hesitate to reach out to me if you need anything at all or need someone to talk to.”

“ Neysa was a wonderful person. She truly touched my life and the lives of the clients she worked with at New Hope. I will always remember our talks in my office, our car rides when I would give her a ride home, but mostly the hugs she would give me when I went to pizza ranch. Rest In Peace.

“ Neysa was one of the first people I met coming into high school. Our lockers were right next to each other and she used to wear this call of duty hat every day and that's really how we became friends. We really became close when we lived in the same apartment building and worked at new hope together. We used to go to each other's apartments at all hours of the day and night talking about everything from food, to family, to anime shows. She was one of my best friends and not a day will go by that me as well as everyone else who knew her wont miss her. May she be at peace, and many prayers and thoughts to the whole family. She was truly an amazing person.

“ Neysa was my childhood best friend and we kept in touch through high school. She was so so sweet and really was a great and loyal friend. I will always remember spending hours chatting with her on the home phone and trying to convince our parents to let us have sleepovers. The news of her passing took my breath away. I remember the day she went to church with me and committed her life to the Lord, and that gives me a peace that she is with our loving God. Sending so much love to the Siepker family ❤️

*That is soo sooo soo reassuring! She was a kind person all throughout high school, very honest, caring for others and willing to do anything for someone she loved! We had a goofy side that we connected on together and it was a crazy experience getting to know someone with such a great laugh! May God be with all of her family at this time!
