“ My condolences to the Boes family..
Fr. Boes was a dear, close friend to the Robert and Sybil Dennehey family for possibly longer than 59 years. I have very fond memories of Father coming to the house every Christmas Eve for dinner and holiday cheer, family celebrations, going to the folks cabin and celebrating church on the lake. As the family grew, all came to know and respect Fr. Boes. We were blessed to have Father celebrate our parents lives as we laid them to rest. He was with our family to the end. He is one special man who will never be forgotten, who leaves me with a smile for my memories. Heaven gained yet another angel!

“ Jim and Mahideh Oman want to send our deepest sympathy to the Boes family for the loss of an amazing human being in the name of Farther Marvin Boes. My many personal encounters with Father Marvin have always left me with a feeling of being in the presence of a person of great humbleness but also great wisdom. He was the most Christ like person I have ever met. It was a great experience to have known him and he has had a profound influence in my life on how a person should walk the path of life.

“ Father Marvin Boes, Thanks for allowing me to assist you during Mass as an altar boy at the 185th Tactical Fighter Group, in Sioux City Iowa. Many memories during our time spent attending your special Mass on the base from 1967 to 1975. Your inspiration and guidance during that time frame and the following years taught me to never give up, keep my faith which all that helped me through life and then graduate from Briar Cliff College in 1990. RIP.... SGT Michael Lally, 185th Security Police.

“ Dear Family of Father Boes, My condolences. I, like Gloria James, got to know Father during his assignment at the Cathedral of the Epiphany. He always had a smile, pep in his step and was kind to all. His gift of relating to all types of people was his trademark.

When he moved to Holy Spirit we reconnected as my uncle, Father Al Grendler, lived in the same section. They were classmates at St. Benedicts. Father Boes spoke very lovingly of his family and his Carroll County roots. He was very proud of all of you and his nephews who helped him the past few years received his praise and thanks.

His knowledge of human rights, farming, social policy, the environment, and many other topics always made me think of the saying: Small minds talk about people, great minds think of ways to make the world better. Father Boes had a great mind and heart. Peace and pause to you as you celebrate your dear brother, uncle, cousin, priest, and friend.

“ What a great man, what a great priest, you serve the community with love, kindness, and put everyone else in front of you.. Father Marvin always came to my sisters house if I was a guest at her house. With Father Steve and the whole Thelen family would come to have fun and celebrate our gathering. Father Marvin you set an example to the world in all the kindness that you have done. I will never forget the love that you showed. It was only a year ago or so ago where we all were together at Lois's house before she passed. You and Father Steven came, you drove all the way from Sioux City to be with all your cousins. What a great person you were. I am so sorry that I lived so far away and cannot attend the funeral. But I will go to my church at Immaculate at the 12:10 Mass and you will be in my heart and soul. Father Steven you will caring on the legacy of your uncle.

God be with you all on Monday. Sending my love and prayers.

“ I'll always remember that giggle he had. He always told me we were Fleskes' because of our blondish red hair and freckles. Fr. Marvin was a joy to see at any family gathering. Especially when he "helped" out at Ralph's wedding. So proud of him was his mother Aunt Matilda and his Dad Uncle Tony, my Mom (Marie) and Dad (Eddie) and all others who knew him. Blessed to be on his new journey with the Lord. God's peace cousin.

Your cousin Jean.

“ Fr Marvin, my uncle was a wonderful social justice advocate. He cared about the Iowa Indian community and worked with them. I admired his strong beliefs and practice in helping farmers and other issues.

I was touched as a young girl in Fort Dodge IA when I found out that he was helping out a poor family---the daughter was my classmate at Corpus Christi. The rich families that lived by them put that family down. When I found out he was helping her, it touched my heart. I also remember my dad Vernon Boes and Fr Marvin talking until 2 or 3am about religion, philosophy every time he visited.

I will remember Fr Marvin as always smiling and his unique laugh.

He was also courageous---I'll never forget that at one time in his life he had to fly in the cockpit of a no passenger jet --not much room to move at all, across the ocean during his time as a chaplain for the military.

God Bless Fr Marvin

“ I was 11-years-old when I first met Father Boes. He was my religion teacher at Epiphany. He was, for all practical purposes, a life-long friend. I will miss the many philosophical debates we had, and acting as his secretary when he was on the road! I used to tell him all the time that he needed a cell phone so I could reach him when he was away, but he was very clear, as only Father could be, that he didn't need one. Then he would chuckle. And so it goes. "Well done, my good and faithful servant." I loved him much, and I will miss him always. Prayers to all of your relatives.

“ I remember how much Fr. Boes was a part of our family. He baptized me, and I wanted him to baptize my first child which thankfully he did. He married my parents when they had their church marriage and was at every family event my parents invited him to. I'm beyond sad and touched, finding out he has passed. The last time I visited with him was briefly at my church's fish fry last year I believe. Thinking back, I wish I would have kept more contact with him. Gosh all the memories of him are starting to come back and makes me sad.
